APEC Comes to California

Paul V. Oliva, Founder and Principal, OlivaGlobal Communications

The Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) annual meetings rotate by country each year and this year's meeting will be in San Francisco, California on September 13th.

Envisioned for San Francisco is an intensive series of meetings, including the Senior Officials' Meeting, working group and committee meetings, public-private forums involving senior government and private sector leaders, and a high-level meeting of energy and transportation officials. Issues addressed at these meetings will include those related to APEC's core mission to promote free and open trade and investment and strengthen economic integration in the Asia-Pacific region, as well as making regional economic growth more inclusive and sustainable.

The Growing Trend Towards Regionalism

Susan Arcady Barich, Director, Project 17 – Monterey Bay

Geographic concentrations of interconnected firms and supporting organizations have re-emerged as a key tool in Washington, D.C. for economic development. The federal branch and Congress have joined state and local policy makers in embracing "regional innovation clusters" (RICs) as a positive framework for structuring the nation's challenged economic development activities.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) has recognized the emerging importance of RICs with the creation of its Innovative Economies pilot program, of which Project 17 - Agriculture Innovation Cluster, is among one of 10 initially selected "innovative economies" of 173 submitted for consideration nationwide. This designation was awarded to Barich Business Services of Santa Cruz to create a regional cluster of agricultural technology companies in the tri-county Congressional District 17 region, dovetailing the technology of the region with the agriculture of the region to solve the looming issues of the ag industry. Susan Barich will discuss this regional initiative, what it means to the region, and how you can be a part of it.

Keynote Speaker

Congressman Sam Farr, 17th District

Congressman Sam Farr will speak about the National Export Initiative, Free Trade Agreements and how that will help our region. Also, he will provide a general overview of what's happening in Congress as it pertains to our local business climate.
